
LEADERSHIP

Many of the business, political, spiritual, and ethical dilemmas that we face today, in our personal and professional lives and as a nation, are symptomatic of a larger issue: a crisis of authenticity and purpose. The conspicuous absence of these qualities or principles leaves many of us craving more integrity, more substance, and more inspiration in our leaders . . . and in our own lives. Access to the Leadership Program is open to everyone and students may begin the program at any time. This course is provided in online classroom, with on-to-one faculty mentoring.

This qualification program offers the:

1. The Leadership Program Certificate

To receive the certificate in Leadership program, a student must complete the curriculum shown below for the applicable option.

LEADERSHIP

AIM

The course is intended for practicing managers who on their own or in connection with ongoing studies or executive short courses want to learn more about how to become a more effective leader. It is also intended for students thinking about the same issue. Yet it is not, in the usual sense, about summarizing all the leadership theories; rather it is about integrating theory and practice and creating a model and a set of related perspectives and concepts about how a person can become a better leader in their own lives, in their work group, and in their organizations

OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of this program, candidates should be able to:

- Understand the leadership point of view.
- Lead the strategic change.
- Lead ethically.
- Understand the six steps to effective leadership.
- Understand the roles in the change process.
- Understand and describe the four Ps.
- Understand and describe the MIT model
